

Stinson Leonard Street LLP

Litigation Associate
Minneapolis, MN

Stinson Leonard Street LLP is seeking an Associate to join the Financial Services & Class Action Litigation Division in our Minneapolis office.

Qualifications Required: Active Minnesota attorney license or eligibility for Minnesota licensure is required. We seek motivated attorneys who are excited to work on sophisticated litigation for clients across the United States, with our collegial, results-oriented team of litigators. Qualified candidates will have litigation experience in a large law firm or government law office, preferably with experience in complex litigation involving the financial services industry, class action defense or white collar criminal experience. Experience and interest in securities, banking, insurance, white collar criminal or antitrust litigation is also helpful. Exceptional academic performance and excellent research, writing and analytical skills are required. We also welcome federal judicial clerkship experience.

Associates in our division have the opportunity to work on some of the most sophisticated and challenging litigation that our clients have. We are looking for team players who want to work in a dynamic, collegial environment, doing challenging and engaging work.

In addition to our Division's core work, we encourage our Associates to take on pro bono opportunities, through Stinson's nationally recognized pro bono program.
